MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence

FROM:

Deputy to the DCI for Resource Management

SUBJECT: Draft DCI Directive No. XX, Intelligence
Research and Development Council

1. Action Requested: That you approve the attached draft DCID for distribution to the NFIB for comment and consideration.

2. Background: The IR&D Council, under the chairmanship of the Under Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering and his predecessors, was established in 1973 by agreement between the DCI and the DDR&E to provide a forum for intelligence R&D coordination. In January 1976, under E.O. 11905, the Council was designated a subcommittee of the CFI and in January 1977 a subcommittee of the PRC(I). PRM-11 and the new E.O. 12036 make it appropriate to designate the Council a committee to the DCI.

3. Specific Factors to Note:

a. The Council and its chairmen have provided a significant service to the DCI during its lifetime.

b. It is the only forum where R&D program managers in the Military Services and Intelligence Community can meet to address the objectives cited in the directive.

c. Its continued existence is highly recommended.

4. Recommendation: That you approve the draft DCID for NFIB distribution.

MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

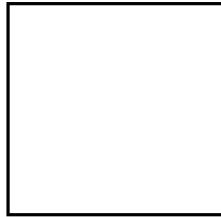

CONVERSATION WITH RANDY JAYNE, OMB, 7 FEBRUARY 1978

Randy and I talked about OMB's current plans -- and lack thereof-- for spring review of the budget. Things are not entirely settled, but the following is a description of what the process will likely look like.

They expect us to come with a small set of issues appropriate for Presidential consideration. OMB will then review the nominated issues and discuss them with us. Then they will be worked over with the President and OMB. These should be fairly general issues. Last year's NFIP guidance, for example, lays out issues in more detail than Randy regards appropriate for Presidential consideration.

This is not meant to be a program decision session; basically, OMB will want to know if some agency has made a change that will cause a significant deviation from its guidance number.

As of today we still do not have from OMB the top line for the five year program. That is still a matter of contention that McIntyre and Brzezinski have not yet been able to resolve.
